

I-32 Document Engine

The I-32 Document Engine is a powerful forms packaging and printing solution. From either your local network or in the remote reaches of the Internet, it can equally deliver an electronic document to the office next door, your main office in New York, or your branch office in Paris.

The I-32 Document Engine fully supports Wolters Kluwer Financial Services' VMP Mortgage Solutions standard or custom-designed electronic business forms. At its most basic level, the I-32 Document Engine provides data merging, viewing, and printing capabilities for your 32-bit forms processing applications. But, its capabilities go beyond that. It can handle multi-page forms as a unit and allows you to work with several sets of related forms at once, which can then be packaged in structured storage files for later retrieval. Furthermore, the packaged forms can be integrated with data and delivered as complete documents.

Features

The I-32 Document Engine embeds easily and works seamlessly within your forms-processing programs. With the I-32 Document Engine, you can:

- Display form pages on screen in WYSIWYG (what you see is what you get) format
- Load data extracted from your database or entered through other applications into the data fields on your forms
- Interactively edit the data directly in the forms
- Handle multi-page forms as a single unit and load any number of forms at once
- Extract data from the forms to send back to your database or export to form-specific data files
- Print sets of forms or individual form pages quickly and efficiently as one job
- Write your own application-specific printer interface to set printer properties for your forms
- Package forms and form sets into structured storage files for later retrieval by your applications
- Package forms and data together to be retrieved as complete documents
